FEATURES

Overwhelming buoyancy!

Rick Fire pursues the balance between two contrasting elements: a high-density body for long-distance casting and the sense of floating. The response is so quick that it begins to move the moment torque is applied to the handle, providing a sensation where the reeling feel and the action are perfectly integrated. With sinking pencils, the feel doesn't often transmit to your hand. That's why Rick Fire, with its seamless connection to the angler's intuition, becomes a reliable weapon that can be trusted and used.

BODY & WEIGHT The body shape and weight balance are meticulously designed to ensure that the tail smoothly faces the direction of travel during casting.

The angle of the eye ensures stable movement.

The precise size and angle of the chin area create the perfect trigger for initiating movement. The sharp shape reduces air resistance during flight.
